

PUBLIC SAFETY

Searchers Look for Man Missing in Great Smoky Mountains Park

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS | NORTH CAROLINA
PUBLISHED 1:12 PM ET JUL. 29, 2019

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) _ Officials with the Great Smoky Mountains National Park say searchers are looking for a man who they say has mild dementia and may be confused about his location.

- A statement from the National Park Service says 58-year-old Kevin Mark Lynch was last seen at the Swag Resort along the park boundary on Saturday
- According to the park service, the search is focusing on an area near the Cataloochee Divide Trail in Haywood County in North Carolina
- Approximately 30 searchers from the park service, Haywood County Search and Rescue, and other organizations are in the area looking

A statement from the National Park Service says 58-year-old Kevin Mark Lynch was last seen at the Swag Resort along the park boundary on Saturday. The park service says Lynch had no camping equipment with him when he disappeared.

According to the park service, the search is focusing on an area near the Cataloochee Divide Trail in Haywood County in North Carolina.

Approximately 30 searchers from the park service, Haywood County Search and Rescue, and other organizations are in the area looking for Lynch both on and off trail.

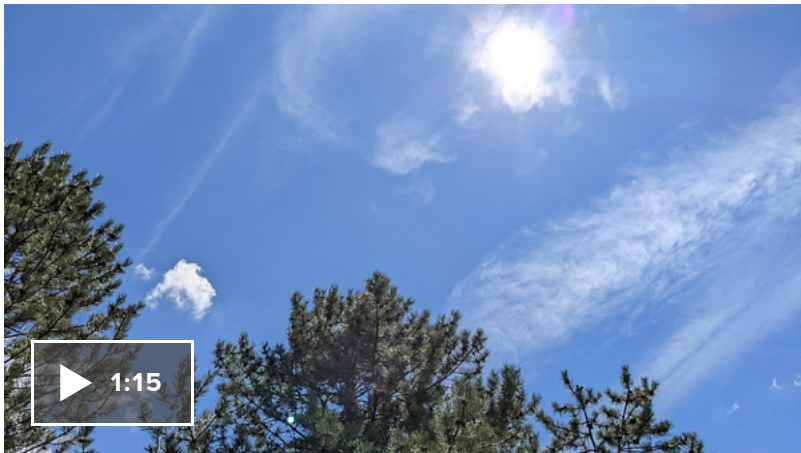

YOU MAY ALSO BE INTERESTED IN

DAILY FORECAST

A good quality day for our Tuesday

MOUNTAIN | 9 HOURS AGO

DAILY FORECAST

A pleasant day Tuesday

CHARLOTTE | 9 HOURS AGO

EDUCATION

First lady, education secretary kick off back-to-school bus tour at N.C. A&T

GREENSBORO | 13 HOURS AGO

TAR HEEL TREASURES

Five-generation family farm attracting thousands of visitors

MOORESVILLE | 16 HOURS AGO

WEATHER

Inflation Reduction Act includes the first new Hurricane Hunter aircraft since the '90s

NATIONWIDE | 16 HOURS AGO

HEALTH

Professionals say more parents are anxious about breastfeeding

CHARLOTTE | 16 HOURS AGO

